应用文（满分 15 分）

Dear David,

I am writing to offer my sincere congratulations to you on your winning the First Prize in the Campus Opera Art Festival.

You really deserve the honor for what you have devoted to Chinese traditional opera these years. Not only have you had a good knowledge of Chinese culture through reading books, but also you have gained a deep insight into traditional opera art by entering all kinds of Chinese opera contests. You have made it a habit to practise Beijing Opera on a daily basis, which is the key to your success.

Congratulations again! I'm looking forward to your making greater contributions to the promotion of Chinese culture.

Yours,
Li Hua

读后续写（满分 25 分）

Ruby walked over to my mother, we girls holding our breath. We waited to see who would shout first and what terrible things would be said. "We are sorry about the flowers. The girls will fix them and help weed the roses." said Mom. My sisters and I looked at each other in horror, but Ruby smiled through her tears. "I know we're particular about these roses, but they're very special because they remind me of my mother." Soon both women were down on their knees examining the damaged bushes together.

A few weeks later, the plants all came back to life. My mother and Ruby worked together on the roses all summer and many summers to follow. So did my sisters and I. A friendship was formed between the families. Ruby became part of our family, spending many happy hours at our house, especially during countless birthdays, graduations and weddings.

And the rose fence wasn't a fence any longer. My mother had turned it into a bridge.

Text 1

W: How about going to the library this afternoon, Alex?

M: I'm sorry, Hailee. I have to take part in an important activity.

W: Well, I'll go alone. I have an exam tomorrow. I think the library is a good place to review.

Text 2

M: How much are these?

W: Let me see. Two pens are $1.50 and a notebook is 80 cents. You need to pay $2.30. M:

Wait a minute. Isn't the price of the notebook 60 cents?

W: Oh, I'm sorry. You're right.

Text 3

M: Excuse me, I'm trying to buy some face masks. But they are not where they used to be.

W: Well, our manager asked us to move them to the first floor, because some customers complained that it was too much trouble to climb stairs to buy face masks. M: A wise decision.

Text 4

M: Did you have a good time in Japan, Lily?

W: Yes, I have visited many beautiful places and met many interesting people, but I still couldn't understand why they eat raw food.

Text 5

M: I heard that you are moving to a new place. Why?

W: To be honest, I really don't want to leave the comfortable environment and friendly neighbors here. But it takes me a long time to take the subway here to work, and my new place is within easy walking distance of my office.

Text 6

M: Hello, may I help you?

W: Yes, please. I'd like to send this parcel to London.

M: Would you like to send it overnight or by regular mail?

W: How much is it by regular mail?

M: 15 dollars.

W: And overnight?

M: 20 dollars and it'll get there tomorrow.

W: Well, it's not urgent.

M: Alright. Please fill in this form.

W: OK.I also need to buy two stamps.

M:A stamp costs 2 dollars.

W:OK.

Text 7

W: Good morning,Nick.This is Lily from the International Student Office.I'm calling to tell you that Mrs. Collins won't be able to see you until next week.

M: Oh. Is there someone else I can talk to?

W: Mr. Hunter is available at 2:15 p.m. Will that work for you?

M: Hmm.... I'd prefer to speak with Miss Brown.

W: But she's only free from 11:00 to 11:30 this morning.

M: No problem.See you at 11:00 a.m.

W: Okay, bye.

Text 8

W:Hi, Peter.I decided to buy an electric car. What do you say?

M:Well, personally, I would prefer a gas-powered car. Electric cars have drawn mixed reviews.

W:Yeah. I've thought about that before.

M: Electric cars can travel less distance and take longer to "refuel". They are also more expensive, and battery packs may need to be replaced.

W: You're right.But I rarely travel long distances. I just need to drive to work and pick up Emily from school. If I go on a trip or visit my parents, I might as well take a plane.

M: Sounds reasonable. We have to admit that there are many advantages of electric cars.They are energy efficient, good for the environment, and they don't require as much maintenance as traditional gas-powered cars.

W: Wow, you really know a lot about cars.

M: Ha-ha, I guess all men like cars.

Text 9

M: You have worked in your present company for 4 years, haven't you?

W:Yes, I have.

M: Why do you want to resign?

W: I work as an assistant to a director. Although the salary has been raised in the past two years, I can't see any future in that position. I really want to look for a more challenging opportunity.

M: What kind of work would you like to try?

W: Just as you advertised in the newspaper.

M: But being a fashion editor is demanding, and you have to work overtime a lot. Have you ever thought about that?

W: Yeah.I think I'll get used to it soon. I have a keen eye for this industry and I often look through relevant information on the Internet.

M: All right. Today is May 10th. We will keep you informed of the interview result by email in one week.

W: Okay. Thank you.

Text 10

M: The 30-year-old chef Dieuveil Malonga has visited 38 of Africa's 54 countries, bringing back ingredients that add taste and flavor to the dishes served at his restaurant. Food experts have largely ignored this continent's cooking heritage, with not a single Michelin-starred restaurant to be found on the continent. But that may soon change, thanks to the efforts of chefs like Malonga, who founded Chefs in Africa—a website devoted to promoting the region's rising stars. He stressed the diversity of African food, citing the example of Nigeria, where one can choose from more than 20 dishes on any given day.

Malonga was born near Brazzaville, the capital of the Republic of the Congo. At 13, he moved to Germany, later joining a famous cooking school in Munster. After graduating, he trained at some of Germany's top restaurants before moving to France to work. After falling in love with Rwanda, a country with a gentle climate—he opened a restaurant in 2020 there. The restaurant is not cheap. An average meal including drinks costs around $150 per person, but his customers are happy to pay for an experience that marries traditional African ingredients with modern techniques.
