Dear library staff,

I am Li Hua, an exchange student from China. There is something wrong with my library account and I'm desperately in need of your help.

I've noticed that my account (ID No.12345) is not working properly. Despite several attempts, I failed to log in and access the library's resources. Could you please help me check my account and address any potential problem that may cause this issue?

Your prompt attention and assistance is appreciated. Looking forward to your reply. (80 words)

Best regards,

Li Hua

第二节 (满分 25 分)

Despite feeling scared and unsure, Taylor trusted Yates and followed his instructions. After circling the airport a few times, she got ready to make the emergency landing. With Yates talking to her all the way, a sense of calm washed over her. "You're doing great," he encouraged, "Keep that stick all the way back." Taylor could see the runway coming up quickly. The plane touched down, the nose hitting the ground Taylor felt the plane shaking and bouncing until it came to a complete stop. She made it! (77 words)

Taylor went up to Yates after she stepped out of the plane safely. With tears of gratitude in her eyes, she hugged him tightly and thanked him for his guidance during the crisis. "Had you not seen the wheel fall off," uttered Taylor, "it's hard to think about what could have happened." Yates praised her that she had done a great job in landing the plane safely with such limited flight experience. Through misty eyes, Taylor could see the path to her career as a pilot become clearer than ever. (77 words)

Text 1

W: How may I help you?

M: I am shopping for a pair of sports shoes. Where is the footwear department?

W: Oh, it's there just opposite the lift.

M: Thank you.

Text 2

M: Hi, Lisa, come on in.

W: Wow, such a big flat! I come to see if you're still looking for a roommate. My brother wants to move out of our parents' house.

M: Yep, I sure am. Ever since I cut back on my work hours to go to college, I've been really low on cash.

Text 3

W: Would you like to go for a run together?

M: Seriously? Look, how dark it is! It may start raining any minute.

W: I know. But I love running in such weather. I hate the strong sunshine.

M: Then, I will take a rain check.

Text 4

M: Watch out, Mom. I dropped a plate and it broke into pieces on the floor. I should have just cleared the table instead of doing the washing-up.

W: Simon, what's done is done. Now let's clean it up.

Text 5

W: Did you get some gas for the car?

M: Oh, I forgot. We'd better get some on our way back. Shall we get something to eat now?

W: I'm not hungry now. Let's go for a mid-night dinner after the play.

Text 6

M: It's pretty cool! It should be a good match!

W: Yes! I'm just fired up.

M: We are so close. I could get my nose broken by a ball!

W: We are in the same row as Jay-Z and Beyonce!

M: It's nice to see all the scarves and football shirts.

W: I just want the match to start now.

M: It also feels so good to have the same seats every time. All thanks to our season tickets that we have a great view from here.

Text 7

M: Hey, where are you heading?

W: I'm going to the library. I have a ten-page paper to finish.

M: Is that for Mrs. Edward's class?

W: Yes. I have to write an article on the influence of Confucius according to what we learned in her class. Collecting information is already tough. With the deadline for my maths and chemistry assignments approaching, I don't know how I'm going to do my history work.

M: You know what, I have just written a review after reading a book about Confucius. And I can share my ideas with you.

W: Well...thanks. But I've made an appointment with my study group.

M: OK. Good luck with the paper.

Text 8

M: Madam, are you OK?

W: I'm fine, Sir.

M: So when did the accident happen?

W: I had a class at 9:00 in the morning. It was about 8:30 when I turned left onto the street in my car. About 5 minutes later, it happened.

M: What was the cause of the accident?

W: I saw a black dog rushing across the street. Unfortunately, a red car was just coming towards the dog from the opposite direction. So it crashed into my car to escape running over the dog.

M: And then?

W: The dog ran away but the driver was stuck in, bleeding. So I called an ambulance immediately. About 10 minutes later, it came and took the injured driver away.

M: OK. Thanks for your cooperation.

Text 9

M: Hi, Kathy, when are you going back to London?

W: On the 1st of August. Two weeks from today, I'll be on the plane.

M: What are you going to do then?

W: Ah, in September I'm going back to college in Manchester.

M: For further study?

W: I want to be a primary school teacher, so I have to finish a one-year training course there. Hopefully, I will be qualified next September.

M: It sounds like you enjoy being with kids.

W: Yeah, when I volunteered in Prague, I taught some children classes and I felt great.

M: Oh, I see. What made you decide to become a teacher?

W: My father is a model teacher who sets me a good example. He considers teaching as the most worthy cause in the world and backs up my decision.

Text 10

Good afternoon, shoppers! This is special request from the security department in our supermarket. We are looking for a 6-year-old boy named George Hinde. All the guests, please take a moment to help us find George. He was last with his mother Sally in the frozen foods section about 10 minutes ago, and she thinks he is still somewhere in the store, possibly in the toy section or the sporting goods section. George is wearing a red shirt, blue jeans, white shoes, and a black cap. He is about 4 feet 2 inches tall with golden hair and blue eyes. If you see George, please help him to get to the security desk located at the first floor near the pizza store. Thank you very much for your help.
